We print. We plant.

For every edition we print, Destination Florida will plant a correlating number of Ponderosa Pines in South Dakota's Pine Ridge Native American Indian Reservation. Encompassing 3,468.85 square miles, and larger than Delaware and Rhode Island combined, it is the eighth largest reservation in the US.

As a global forestry partner with the international Print Relief initiative, we are committed to converting our paper footprint into actual trees.

Greening the landscape to combat climate change, land rights issue and poverty, while developing income opportunities are paramount to the Pine Ridge Project. With Print Relief, resources borrowed from the earth can be returned and multiplied after use. Through their verified reforestation process, there is a 100% net survival of the trees we plant.

Thanks for your support as we now help to reforest the Pine Ridge Native American Reservation... one print job at a time.
